On Thursday, April 15, sixteen Arizona Tribal Leaders met with Governor Doug Ducey at the Heard Museum to witness the signing of an historic tribal-state gaming compact amendment that will permit legalized sports betting in the state.

Ak-Chin Chairman Robert Miguel and Vice-Chairman Lemuel Vincent were in awe at the turnout of tribal leaders and their commitment to getting this gaming agreement approved.

Tribes had been in negotiations for five years, before coming to an agreement.

Chairman shared that prior to the historic signing, "Tribal Leaders were placed into a room together and it was truly an emotional moment. To me it felt a little like time stood still to allow the opportunity to take in that not only were we preparing to potentially make life better for our people and the State overall, but I personally felt the power and strength that was in that room."

Vice-Chairman Vincent shared his experience, during a community meeting, "It was my first endeavor of being there, which is real exciting for me because going back on what the council said was that

April Community Meeting

Chairman Robert Miguel welcomed members to the virtual April 26 Community meeting, that featured one presentation from Ak-Chin Incident Management Team (IMT).

Community Services Manager, Nicole "Coco" Carlyle-Coester, opened with a prayer before presenting on the IMT. She explained how and why the team was put together, per the Community's emergency operations plan.

The team was established on March 23, 2020, and has eight team members who each have certain functions. Chief of Police, Manuel Garcia, who is also the Chief of Operations for IMT, shared his role.

Chief Garcia's responsibility is primarily over operations. For the most part he is involved with covering any events in the Community that are COVID related and trying to keep things flowing smoothly.

He thanked the membership as well for following the mandates and staying safe. "We do really have to thank you the Community members and residents for what you do as well, because you're really sacrificing a lot."

He also shared a story about the Community children and how they're dealing with the pandemic. "It was really neat to see kids at the bus stop... all of them were wearing their masks...but my hopes are that one day masks will go away or somehow that's modified sometime in the future."

After Chief finished, Coco provided COVID stats for positive cases, quarantined homes and vaccinations.

As of April 26, the total Community related cases both off and on the Community boundaries, was at a total of 7. Back in January there were over 40.

"We've come a long way and that's a good thing, as Chief said thank you, it's the Community that's helping with this effort as well."

Reflecting: Ak-Chin Police Chief Milton Paul Antone

Story by J. Peters

Ak-Chin Chief of Police, Milton Paul Antone's life was taken 28 years ago when the 30-year-old Police Chief responded to a call for assistance from Pinal County. His heroic act and immense bravery trying to reason with a suspect before an exchange of gun fire, inevitably brought his life to a halt when he was struck by a bullet fired by the suspect.

On his day of burial, it was estimated that 200 uniformed officers were in attendance to give their final goodbyes to their fallen brother.

He is survived by five brothers; Martin Sr., Daniel, William, Fred and Stanley Antone, and two sisters; Bernadine Romo and Wilma Antone-Frausto.

Chief Antone (bad) had served with the Ak-Chin Police Department for 8 years, starting in 1975. His dedication of service to his community led to his promotion to Police Chief in 1982.

That same year in December, Chief Antone (bad) was nominated for a special recognition award from the Pima Law Enforcement Agency due to his outstanding service for saving the life of an elder lady stranded in a flooded wash on the Ak-Chin reservation.

Chief Antone (bad) was an upstanding citizen, who proudly served his community. He coached both little league and women softball teams while serving as an officer and Police Chief.

Paul was always engaging with his community, helping in creating a brighter tomorrow for his people. He was always willing to take the time to talk with community members, encouraging the youth to stay in school and out of trouble, offering hope and assistance for many who needed a helping hand.

Through the years the community has kept his memory alive by having anniversary events, including dedicating a community park Milton "Paul" Antone Memorial Park in his honor.

During May, his birthday month, family and friends would participate in the community event, sharing their sorrows, wonderful memories, and gratitude to the Police Chief, thanking him for his devotion to his home, his people, and the state of Arizona.

On the anniversary day of his death, April 14th, of this year, the Ak-Chin Police Department shared a link for

Coco went on to share number of total Community COVID cases within the reservation boundaries, was 3, and total homes within the boundaries currently quarantined were 3 homes, which was very good, considering a few months back it was almost 50 homes.

Total Community members that have had at least one COVID vaccination, was 331, or 27.65%. Total Community members that are fully vaccinated, which means they have had their first and second shots and are 14 days out, is 244, or 20.38%.

Coco shared percentages of Community members not vaccinated, not eligible for vaccination and eligible, but not vaccinated.

She then moved on to talk about herd immunity, which "is just getting a population of enough people to get vaccinated so that the virus is not able to spread as easily. So, if you get enough people protected then it can't jump from one person to another as easily as it would with somebody that's not vaccinated or not protected."

According to the statistics and experts in the field, the Community would need at least 75% of our total population vaccinated in order to achieve herd immunity.

"In our case that'd be about 898 people... we're only at about 20% of the of Community members that are fully vaccinated... we still have some work to do in order to be able to get that herd immunity."

After Coco finished providing stats and percentages, members began to send in their questions and comments.

Questions stemmed from inquiries on employee vaccination status, surveys on vaccination and reasons for not getting vaccinated.

Also asked was whether contact tracing was only limited to Community members on the reservation.

IMT would like to find out reasons why members may not be getting vaccinated, they agreed that they need to do a better job of educating everyone.

Council and IMT again thanked the Community for their diligence and patience, "We're all in this together, ultimately we'll get there at some point, hopefully to a new normal."

Questions were asked about the IMT budget, what IMT does for quarantined households, and reporting what was bought and allocated at the next Community meeting.

IMT budget is coming from the CARES Act and is spent on specific things that are COVID related, such as PPE, sanitation supplies, and equipment, like the thermometers that check your temperature at the doors.

Residents who have COVID in the household or have been exposed are put on quarantine for 14 days, per the CDC, "because that is how long it takes COVID to manifest itself or recover."

Initial steps are to get the family or household specific items, such as cleaning supplies, masks, and gloves and then follow up with groceries. The main focus is to help keep the family from leaving the residence and be out and about.

Members were encouraged to make an appointment with the Finance department if they would like to view financials.

Questions were asked on how and when the tribe will go back to normal, why events are happening in the Community when there are still restrictions and limitations on event gatherings, and when restrictions will be lifted.

Council stressed the difference between a heavily regulated and restricted environment like the casino or the workplace has policies; mask mandates, safety protocols, sanitizing, social distancing; being enforced.

Whereas, private gatherings in the Community are not being heavily regulated or have authority to enforce safety restrictions.

The last questions focused on recreation opening, programs and sports, and opening up the preschool.

Recreation and Council had a work session planned for the following day to discuss potentially opening up on a limited basis. "Recreation is working on some plans, they have done a very good job trying to make them, if you can imagine, as contactless as possible...safe as possible."

Re-opening Community departments will heavily depend on our numbers staying stable. Our COVID and quarantine cases need to go down and our testing and vaccination numbers need to go up, "that's why we keep encouraging people to get vaccinated, get tested, wear your mask, keep your distance, use your hand sanitizer... that will help keep these numbers stable and as long as they're stable programs can start happening on a very slow and very, very cautious opening."

Council provided updates on the new gaming compact, hiring a Purchase Referred Care manager, Washington football team naming committee, and the CAP water lawsuit.

"Congratulations to all of you who have family and friends or relatives that are graduating in any aspect," Chairman shared. "It's special that they'll be able to move forward and that they're having ceremonies now. Next year cross our fingers that it will be open for all to attend."

"Thank you guys for being on with us, again we look forward to the next Community meeting."

The next Community Meeting is scheduled for Monday, May 24th, 6pm.

Public Works takes on IPM for Community mosquito control

Submitted by:

Theodore Puetz

Ak-Chin Pesticide Control
Specialist - EPD

Mosquito control has been a call and fog way to control mosquitoes in the Community.

By the time the fogging is started, many individuals may have already been bitten.
This only exponentially increases new numbers of next generations and decreases the effectiveness of mosquito control later in the season.

Increased costs of commercial applications, increased pesticide exposure to the Community and reduced effectiveness of adulticides have created an opportunity to rethink mosquito control using Integrated Pest Management practices or IPM.

That is to say; focus on community prevention around our homes, use trapping techniques to identify and use larvicides in target areas and only use adult stage pesticides (fogging) when needed.

Public Works are and have been involved in vegetation control in the community, using proven cutting, trimming and pruning techniques for many years.

Pesticides such as herbicides have been applied for weed control around streets, walk ways and right of ways and you may have seen operations in use.

Other pesticides we see used in the Community include Insecticides used for home pest control of ants, scorpions, termites, fleas and flying insects.

Mosquitoes are a pest that only wants a blood meal to hatch more generations.

Mosquitoes are a special pest because of the diseases they can carry and spread.
Dengue, Chikungunya, Yellow Fever and Zika virus are spread by certain species of mosquitos.

Public Works have embarked on an intensive training program to accurately identify, target and control mosquitoes in the 2021 season. This will truly need to be a Community effort! To use all the tools that are available to our Community.

To begin with and most importantly, your supporting efforts are needed around your home, to follow good mosquito prevention controls of keeping water from accumulating where mosquitoes can harbor their larvae and grow.

Community" goes over use of trapping in IPM mosquito program.

EARTH DAY 2021

Thursday, April 22nd, Harrah's and Ak-Chin employees take a quick "masks on" photo in front of Ak-Chin Circle, after completing a 347 ADOPT-A-HIGHWAY CLEAN UP.

Groups of 10 or less teamed up to help pick up trash along the highway in front of Ak-Chin Circle and Harrah's, equipped with safety vests, gloves, trash grabbers and bags.

After the clean up, everyone received a nice goodie bag filled with Environmental education and a t-shirt to commemorate the day.

in early 2019 and he told me before he drove out to Ak-Chin, Buddy was behaving as he used to when he would report to work with Jeff. Buddy was waiting at the door ready to take the drive from Chandler to Ak-Chin.

For those of you who do not know Buddy or Jeff, Jeff was the Ak-Chin Librarian from April 2009-November 2018 and Buddy was our full-time “Reader Dog” made possible by the Strickland Donation in 2013.

Buddy was trained, and became a certified therapy dog through Pet Partners and Library staff would visit one of the Maricopa elementary schools and our kids would read to him during the tutoring sessions after school.

Buddy visited the Preschool, he visited the Elder Center few times, and kids/parents would visit him at the Library.

There is research on the benefits on children reading to dogs and Council loved the idea when we proposed it in late 2012. In the proposal, we mentioned that Buddy didn't want a check, he only wanted

Jeff created this homage to Buddy. He calls it a "Buddypoolza," please watch when you have a chance and show your children or forward this e-mail to them to see some Buddy videos. Some of the children in the videos are probably 18 years old or close to it.

Literacy

Give your child an alphabet card (a piece of paper with a letter written on it) and have them place it on something that begins with that letter. For example, the Letter B could be placed on a book or ball.

Letter Treasure Hunt

Hide alphabet cards around the house. Have your child find them, say the letter and/or sound and bring it to you. Have them continue to look for the cards until all are found. Common letters to start with are the letters in their first and last name.

Math

Shapes

Help your child learn their shapes by tracing common household items. Turn over a cup to make circles and trace your cell phone for rectangles. Hunting is part of the fun. Kids may want to decorate their shapes or cut them out, endless possibilities.

Science

Sink or Float Experiment

Help your child learn about density. Have them gather items that can be put into water. Put water into the sink, the tub or a large bowl/ container. As your child picks an item ask them if they think the item will sink or float and test their prediction by having them place it in the water.

First Things First launches #ShareTheCareAZ campaign to say thanks

PHOENIX (April 23, 2021) — After a challenging year for the child care workforce, Arizona's early childhood agency, First Things First (FTF), invites Arizonans to show their gratitude for the state's early care and education providers through the #ShareTheCareAZ campaign.

Throughout the month of May, FTF is recognizing the state's child care workers, preschool teachers and friend and family caregivers who help our youngest children learn, grow and succeed. Everyone is invited to visit the Share the Care AZ page, FirstThingsFirst.org/sharethecareaz/ for simple ways to show support to this essential workforce.

FTF is asking community members to share the #ShareTheCareAZ video: youtu.be/v7scZvSetko on their Facebook, Instagram or Twitter and tag their favorite provider or center with a personal note — just be sure to use #ShareTheCareAZ and tag First Things First when posting.

The nurturing relationships that child care workers, preschool teachers and friend and family caregivers build with our children are critical to the healthy development of babies, toddlers and preschoolers. More Arizonans now realize that the child care workforce is an essential family support and an engine of our economy. This past year has made

Police Chief. Thanking him for his devotion to his home, his people, and the state of Arizona.

On the anniversary day of his death, April 14th of this year, the Ak-Chin Police Department shared a link to Chief Antone (bth) page on the Officer Down Memorial Page, the non-profit organization honors fallen law enforcement officers in the country. The site gives a place to house the shared memories of the past police force. Chief Antone (bth) page gives an inside look on how others have remembered him in his glory days as it provides an opportunity to look back, share heartfelt memories and thank you by all who know him.

Here is the link if you wish to share a reflection on the late and great Police Chief Milton Paul Antone (bth) <https://www.odmp.org/officer/1256-chief-of-police-milton-paul-antone>.

FirstThingsFirst launches #ShareTheCareAZ campaign to say thanks PHOENIX (April 23, 2021) – After a challenging year for the child care workforce, Arizona's early childhood agency, First Things First (FTF), invites Arizonans to show their gratitude for the state's early care and education providers through the #ShareTheCareAZ campaign.

Throughout the month of May, FTF is recognizing the state's child care workers, preschool teachers and friend and family caregivers who help our youngest children learn, grow and succeed. Everyone is invited to visit the Share the Care AZ page, FirstThingsFirst.org/sharethecareaz/ for simple ways to show support to this essential workforce.

FTF is asking community members to share the #ShareTheCareAZ video: youtu.be/v7scZvSetko on their Facebook, Instagram or Twitter and tag their favorite provider or center with a personal note — just be sure to use #ShareTheCareAZ and tag First Things First when posting.

The nurturing relationships that child care workers, preschool teachers and friend and family caregivers build with our children are critical to the healthy development of babies, toddlers and preschoolers.

More Arizonans now realize that the child care workforce is an essential family support and an engine of our economy. This past year has made clear that a lack of quality child care impacts workforce participation and job stability.

As the pandemic caused the abrupt shutdown of many child care and home-based centers, the importance of child care providers to families, to communities and to Arizona's economy came into clearer view over the past year.

For example, more than half of the nearly 1,000 child care providers who participate in FTF's Quality First program had closed by mid-March 2020. Now, despite drastically reduced enrollment and expensive increased health and safety measures, many centers are determined to serve families who need safe, trusted child care in order to continue working.

Despite the many challenges of the past year, the child care industry has kept a positive attitude, said FTF Senior Director for Early Learning Ginger Sandweg.

"Overall, their spirit is really positive," she said. "One owner told me, 'When I'm starting to have a pity party, I me hope.' It's a mental break. The children are opportunities to find joy and comfort in the nitty gritty of what we do every day."

While the last year was challenging for everyone, the resilience and dedication of early educators renewed our deep appreciation for those who provide child care and the essential role it plays. Especially providers offer families critical support when they need it most.

Make sure to follow FTF on Facebook, Instagram or Twitter because we'll be posting and sharing gratitude for caregivers throughout May. The goal is for every caregiver in Arizona to feel the appreciation, because, by caring for our children, they've been caring for us all.

The Caring House receives a five-star Long Stay Quality Measure rating from CMS.

The Caring House underwent a recent audit by Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) for Quality Control Measures in both long stay (more than 100 days) and short stay (less than 100 days) residencies.

In the long-stay category, officials reviewed various data, including the percentage of residents experiencing one more injury falls and the rate of high-risk residents with pressure sores. For the short stay category, officials looked at the percentage of residents with pressure injuries and those who improved during their stay. The Caring House scored five stars in the long-stay category (which includes most residents) and three stars in the short-stay category. The average rating for The Caring House rose from 2020, going from three stars to four.

this was a long time making... the negotiating, going back and forth... we had all these leaders in there that wanted the same thing... everybody was on board and it was good to see that."

Also attending on behalf of Ak-Chin was Harrah's Ak-Chin General Manager Michael Kintner, "I am super proud and honored to have attended this historic event at the Heard Museum... I am also extremely excited for the opportunities this expanded gaming legislation provides the Ak-Chin Community, our Team Members and our guests. Congratulations to the Ak-Chin Indian Community and all of the Arizona Native American Communities on the passing of this historic legislation!"

Both Chairman and Kintner explained that once the compact goes into effect it would take a couple of months before the casinos will be able to offer sports betting and new table games like craps and roulette.

Chairman Miguel is looking forward to seeing the many benefits this will bring to Ak-Chin.

"The continued financial growth of the Community, which will allow us to expand much needed services and opportunities in all realms. We can now continue to identify other needs of the Community that aren't in place yet. We can dream a little more and we will have the financial resources to make these dreams come true."

"With the signing of the new compact, one particular item I am excited about is the opportunity for another Casino in our Community. Not anytime soon, but possibly in a few decades or so... When the Community first signed their compact in 1998, they were given the option of a potential second casino. Council at that time felt the need for a second casino was not a necessity, so the compact reflected that Ak-Chin was awarded one casino."

"With growth in membership and the opportunity to expand landbase wise in the future, Council and In House Legal negotiated with the State in possibly revitalizing the second casino option. Following lengthy negotiations, the State agreed to accommodate the request to reflect the opportunity for a second casino. Again, this is not something that will happen tomorrow or in the near future... but it does allow the opportunity if and when Ak-Chin decides to move in this direction."
